Bonus Material!!

Dung beetle. This clip from the movie Microcosmos shows a dung beetle rolling a large, smooth, spherical ball of dung. The beetles roll the dung balls and bury them in tunnels to provide food for their offspring while they are larvae. After viewing this video it should be easy to understand how the ancient Egyptians related rolling dung balls to the round sun moving across the sky each day.

Mantis kung fu technique. In this foreign film, the supposed origin of the mantis kung fu technique is incorporated into the plot. The hero of the movie has been beaten up by the bad guys. While he is out in the woods letting his wounds heal, he comes upon a praying mantis, which he picks up. His observations of the mantis lead to a new fighting style that allows him to defeat his enemies later in the movie.
